

SOMETHING DOING

But The Public Is Not In Official Confidence.

Air Full of Rumors But All Avenues of Information Closely Guarded.

Asylum officials are very close-mouthed about the impending troubles in that institution. The Board held a special meeting Monday of last week and the Inspector came on the heels of it. Every effort has been made to suppress the trouble, whatever it was. It is pretty well understood that a "sour mash" of some sort exists and that the commissioned officers are at serious outs. One set is trying to get rid of Dr. Ray and on the other hand it is said Dr. Ray is making an honest effort to regulate certain abuses, but with poor success. There is more or less open talk on the streets about "speculations" and crookedness of one sort or another that Dr. Ray is trying to break up.

One of the rumors from the wards is more horrible than anything that has yet occurred. It is said that a patient reported as being from Webster county died under circumstances that caused the discharge of an attendant a short while ago. The story goes that two patients acting as assistants put the patient, a very old and feeble man, in a bath tub in which the water was too hot and that his death resulted soon afterwards. Whether the water was scalding or not is one of the carefully guarded asylum secrets, but the attendant, who was not present when the bath was administered, it is alleged, lost his job. This discharge may be one of the acts of Dr. Ray that has caused the gang to break with him.

A talkative young man who is close to the throne is authority for the statement that Dr. Ray will soon have to walk the plank. On the other hand Dr. Ray is making friends by "bucking the gang." Another rumor is that he has been watching closely for violations of the "eleventh commandment" and has been successful in locating some infractions.

Inspector Hines was here last week, but the copy of his report that should have been mailed to the KENTUCKIAN, throwing light on the trouble, was evidently lost in the mails, as it has not been received.

Right on top of other rumors comes the admitted fact that a brother of Newton Rideout, of Webster county, had to go to Louisville last week and rescue his brother's body from the pickling vat of a medical college. Rideout "escaped" from the asylum and started to walk home, a train knocked him off the track and killed him at Empire. His body was brought here and for two days awaited identification, being finally shipped to a medical college.

It seems that Webster county is having a hard time to keep her quota of patients in the asylum from meeting with violent deaths.

GRACEY HUNTING CLUB.

About a Dozen Members Leave For Arkansas.

The Gracey Hunting Club left this morning for their annual hunt in Arkansas. Following are the names of most of the members who went on the trip this year: Albert Cox, J. J. Reed, R. P. Turney, J. P. Watson, E. T. Libby, W. A. Bogard, Andrew and Doss Harris, H. W. Bennett, Tom Hopper, Terry H. Fuqua and J. P. Ferguson.

They took along a large number of dogs, two cooks, provisions, tents and plenty of ammunition.

Large game is reported plentiful in the section of Arkansas where the club will go into camp and a very enjoyable outing is anticipated. They will be absent about three weeks.

TWO BURLY NEGROES

Badly Frighten a Lone Widow Near Gracey.

Driven Off They Return a Second Time to Hang Around Her House.

Gracey, Ky., Nov. 17.—Henry Burgess, a farmer, lives near Gracey, on the Cerulean Springs road, with his widowed sister and her two little children. Friday night Mr. Burgess was away from home and two negro men came to the door and asked the widow, whose name was not learned, to be allowed to stay all night. She of course refused, when one of them declared that they intended to stay anyhow. The lady slammed the door and locked it and escaping from a back door ran across a field to Mr. A. E. Owen's and gave the alarm. Messrs. Steve and George Owen took pistols and went back with her, but a close search failed to discover the negroes. Later in the night a young man named Walter Burt saw them hanging around the house, but they disappeared when he passed and were seen no more. It is said the negroes came from the direction of Hopkinsville.

It would not be healthy for them to be caught by the citizens of the neighborhood.

REPLACE THE CROSSINGS.

Main Street Citizens Want Step-ping Stones Back.

Recently when the road bed of South Main street was raised about six inches and the new street rolled with the big 40,000-pound roller, the numerous street crossings out that thoroughfare were either taken up or covered up. The theory advanced was that the rolled street would be such an improvement that it could be crossed anywhere without soiling a lady's slippers, making crossings not only unnecessary but a positive nuisance. This hope has not been realized. The theory was good, but the practice has not brought satisfactory results. The new street was covered with clay and this has given it the appearance of a mud road since the rains began. The new street also accumulates dirt like the old one and the result is that there is a wail of complaint at muddy streets and no crossings. There is a general demand that the crossings, some of which were put down at private expense, be replaced.

SECOND CROP

Of Strawberries in This Glorious Climate of Kentucky.

Strawberry beds are in bloom in many gardens in the city for the second time this year. Dr. J. A. Gunn has a large bed with a half-grown crop of berries that will be ripe if the warm weather continues for two weeks more. [Dr. Andrew Sargent also reports a bed in full bloom.

There has been no really destructive frost so far. Tobacco suckers that were nipped have put out a new crop of suckers and are growing again.

THREE DECISIONS.

One That Hopkins County Is Liable For Guard Bills.

The Court of Appeals has affirmed the judgment of the circuit court, holding Hopkins county liable for $3,408, the amount due on claims of mine guards during the strike troubles in that county. The court affirmed the death sentence of Jas. Hocker, a negro wife murderer, in Lincoln county. The court reversed a judgment of the juries circuit court in the Whitesville poll tax case. The effect of the decision is that the citizens of that town must pay a county poll tax.

RIPE FIGS

One of the Luxuries of Our Semi-Tropical Autumn.

The editor of the Kentuckian is now gathering ripe figs from his own garden. While living in California several years ago he acquired a taste for this fruit fresh from the trees, which in spite of vain efforts has not been gratified by home grown fruit until this year. The frost has always come a little too soon for the fruit to ripen. This fall some fully ripened figs have been gathered and there are many green ones yet on the trees.

He is now able to be up, though he is still suffering from the effects of the injury.

MRS. ADA LAYNE.

THE CAPTURE OF SQUINTY SMITH

"YANDER he comes, mammy!" yelled the little yellow-headed, freckled boy, running into the kitchen about eight o'clock, late with delight. A scrawny, withered, weary woman came out of the house with two dirty children at her heels and behind them a half-grown, red-headed, gangling girl, with two fierce little brads sticking away from her poll.

A bony man on a ragged pony came galloping down the country road.

"Supper ready, Mag?" he bawled at the woman.

"Supper? Why, 'tain't no more'n seven o'clock. What's up?"

"What's up! Everything is up! Squinty Smith has come! I've got him right this time. He killed Frank Copley in the Hazard s'loon, put four cold uns in th' deputy sheriff, and Lord, I don't have no more's 'a'st since I left town."

The children stared in awed astonishment at this bloody news and followed him round to the corner.

"Well, what y'all lookin' at? Here, you Siss," to the red-headed girl, "get a move on you. Marlar, don't stand that all night like you was loosed. Git my supper."

"Did you see him, Hank?"

"See who?"

"Why him, Squinty Smith?"

"See him? Of course I did! I see him. If I seen him he'd be all up with him! I'd ribbed him up with lead till he'd a-sunk his own grave. But I didn't have no gun, nohow. Sher'r' Housman says I must jine the posse, an' I says: 'Sher'r', if I'd a-sen Sher'r' 'stead o' you, I wouldn't need no posse for to ketch Squinty Smith nor no other onery outlaw like him.' So I didn't have no gun, so I just come home for t' git supper an' ready up my arsenal. Git a move on thar, Siss!"

The red-headed girl tossed her head and disappeared into the tumble-down kitchen. The mother busy with pot and pan, and the man, blustering fiercely about what 'he'd a-done if he'd had his weapons," pulled his Winchester out of the closet and began to slip cartridges into the magazine.

"I don't want no more's a peep at that gold-digged Squinty Smith, no-how. He s'illuz vuz onery, an' he's o'tta been put outa biz a long time ago. He's had Sher'r' Housman bluffed for two year an' more, an' he's got purty nigh every man in Plankton buffaloed! But I'll show him!"

The man's slatternly children stood about him in gaping admiration. The red-headed girl stuck her head in at the door and said:

"What did you fetch 'er, daddy?"

"Dry up, you niddy! I didn't have no time to think about fetchin' home nothin'. I come home to git suthin' for come home to git my weapons, an' if ever I ketch a peep at that dang—"

At this instant there was a sharp, rasping click at the open window and a blue-barreled gun muzzle jumped into the light.

"Hold up your hands, Mitchell!" said a quiet but very distinct voice.

The big man at the table held up his hands with a foolish effort to smile at the face that looked over the gun.

"Quit yer foolin', Smith," he said, weakly; "put it down an' move in."

Squinty Smith, a bull-necked, one-eyed ruffian got in at the window without foregoing an instant of his advantage.

"I'll take charge of these, Mitchell," he said, coolly putting his host's pistol into his coat pocket, "and this, both noble-looking guns, but I'll take charge o' them."

Mitchell sat still, his wife and Siss watching the performance from the darkness of the kitchen, while Smith walked out into the lot and deliberately dumped the rifle and the pistol into the well.

"Got any more guns?" he asked, coming back.

"Nary a gun, Smith," answered Mitchell, trying to wink knowingly at his wife.

"All right, you can let down your mitts," quoth the outlaw. "You sit thar, and here, Mrs. Mitchell, you set alongside. Now make that gal o' your'n git no more supper."

The scared children huddled in the corner behind their fallen hero. The woman, fascinated into submission by the man's foot, stood with her big, blue revolver beside his plate, attacked the pile of corn bread. Siss, the red-headed, nervous virgin-looking girl, came in and out with a dish of potatoes, some fried bacon and a can of water.

"What makes you act so foolish, Smithy?" Mitchell was whining. "Ain't nothin' wrong, is there? You might a-supper'd I'd give you your supper 'thout no such row as that."

"You might and you mightn't. Got any eggs?" growled Smith, leering at Siss out of his one vindictive eye. "Ain't got none fur you?" snapped the little virgin, bridling with fire and whipping her two little red pig tails venomously.

The desperado turned red with fury, clutched at his pistol and was about to check out a curse when Mitchell interrupted with:

"See here, Siss, you danged little rattle-snake, fetch him some eggs. That ain't no way fur you to go sassin' Mr. Smith. Don't you know no better than far to be givin' back talk to folks older'n you?"

Siss looked indignantly at her mother, but the weak little woman nodded her head and piped:

"In the s'one jar, Siss. You'll find a couple o' eggs in the s'one jar."

"Now, see here, Mitchell," said Smith, transfixing the hulking coward with his eye, "ain't no use, you lettin' on you don't know. I seen you in town today, and you passed me on the road. I was under Baggo's corn crib. I killed Copley and the deputy, an' I'd killed Housman, too, if I'd a chance. I'm goin' to take your horse, an' if you 're any o' these brats o' your'n says a word to the sheriff about me, 'r' which way I come, 'r' what route I took, I'll come back here an' blow th' whole outfit out—"

Siss came in with two fried eggs and laid the dish before him. He took his knife and fork and reached for the food, hurrying like a hungry, hunted man.

"I'll come back and blow the whole outfit out—"

She stood irresolute an instant beside him. Her snapping blue eyes were on the pistol. Quick as a flash she grabbed it up, whisked round the table, and with the cocked weapon held in both her skinny hands and pointed for the bad man's face she yelled:

"Now, you impudent pup, I'm a-goin' to frazzle you with bullets!"

Smith was so astonished that he let fall his chin, his mouth, sat up straight, stiff as a jay figure, pale as his dirty hide would go, his lips hectic, his one eye starting and the sweat of rage on his forehead.

The little yellow-haired boy, crouching in the corner began to squall lugubriously. Mitchell and his thin wife sat and stared at the transfixed Siss.

"Git up an' tie him, daddy!" she almost shrieked. "Tie him 'r' I'll frazzle him all over to pieces!"

Mitchell looked at Smith and paused, his big hands shaking a bit.

"Tie him 'r' I'll frazzle the both o' you!" he roared, stamping her foot in an ecstasy of wrath.

Mitchell hulked out into the yard for a rope, but Siss, the little serpent, laid her quaky motionless with the glitter of her eye and the portent of the big revolver. But Mitchell came back and the cowed outlaw was limp and weak before the unrelenting hostility of the red-headed girl. And when Mitchell's courage began to come back and he had fixed first the larbat about the pinched arms of Smith, there was a clatter of hoofbeats in the road. Smith made a motion as if to rise, but the blue eye and the big gun bade him sit still.

And when Sheriff Housman and his posse came galloping up Mitchell was in the road yelling: "I ketches him, Sher'r'! I got him in yander tied up an' iced!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

"I'M GOING TO, ANYWAY."

When you're set your head to do it. When your judgment says you're right. When your conscience gives its sanction. Then pitch in with all your might. Don't let anything prevent you. Though the odds seem big and strong; Be sure you mean to win.

As the swift days roll along— If you mean to win and stay— "Well, I'm going to, anyway!"

While the whole world loves a lover, Yet it loves a winner best. Love the man who will not surrender. Stoops not e'en for sleep or rest. Or he may be won by a conqueror. Or he may weary be.

Yet the love heart will not wait. Has been firm as rock since he Set his quiet jaw to say: "Well, I'm going to, anyway!"

A PIG IN A POKE.

Buying a pig in a poke is the proverbial expression for a purchase of something whose value is unknown.

No one who buys Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is purchasing a medicine of unproved or doubtful value. It always helps. It almost always cures. Thousands of men and women who have been cured by the use of this medicine testify to a perfect restoration of health and strength by its use.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach and other forms of disease popularly known as stomach trouble. It builds up the body with firm flesh, not fatty fat.

"About ten years ago I began to be afflicted with catarrh of the stomach, also dyspepsia," writes Mr. Wm. Walters, of Antrim, Mo. "I was troubled so often that I sometimes thought my end had come. Tried many remedies, but they gave only temporary relief. In November 1899, thought I would try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I got six bottles and took five in succession, then thought I would wait for a time and take the one left. Soon found I had symptoms of the trouble coming back, so took the sixth bottle and it cured me. I have enjoyed the best of health this summer, and the credit all belongs to your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I can't express my many thanks to Dr. Pierce for his remedy, for it did so much for me. Words cannot express what I suffered, the trouble was so severe."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

OFFICE 22 SOUTH MAIN STREET.

—NOVEMBER 18, 1902—

Emperor William has been on a visit to King Edward and when he left kissed his uncle goodbye.

John Westover is now editor of the Oregon City Courier, published away out in Oregon.

A brilliant meteor fell somewhere Saturday night, its light creating excitement in many Central Kentucky towns.

Mayor J. H. Powell, of Henderson, has issued a Thanksgiving proclamation in line with those promulgated by Teddy and Cripps.

Judge Nunn carried 14 of the 18 counties in his district, losing his own county, Hopkins, by 7 votes. His majority is 8,765.

What a pity that Frankfort meteor didn't fall at Hopkinsville. It might have thrown some light on the latest Asylum rumpus.

The death bed will of Millionaire J. M. Gibson, of Cincinnati, leaving all of his personal property to his newly made wife, is missing.

It is said that Judge Henry S. Barker, of Louisville, holds the same views on many questions that he did a year or two ago, when he found it necessary to read the riot act occasionally.

The Louisville Commercial Club gave a dinner and smoker Saturday night at the Louisville Hotel to discuss the upbuilding of the State in a commercial way. A number of country editors attended as honor ary members.

The smallest fish in the world is found in Luzon, the largest of them being only half an inch long. It has been named the "mistichys," from two Greek words meaning "smallest fish." Next thing we know some of our Kentucky statesmen around Frankfort will be appropriating the name.

President Roosevelt is having poor luck hunting bears in Mississippi. The news was sent out Sunday that the local hunters roped a lean bear, tied him to a tree and blew the horns for Teddy. The great man disdained to shoot the bear when he came up, but ordered one of the men to dispatch it. If the President wants to find game and lots of it in Mississippi he should charge the sport into a coon hunt.

Christian County Democrats are preparing to reap the bitter fruits of electing an ineligible candidate to office a year ago. He was elected on the fusion ticket and after one year of triumph the Democrats filling appointive offices under the Fiscal court, must step down and out unless the courts are resorted to and asked to render partisan decisions. This sort of business should never be allowed in a state campaign. No good Democrat will knowingly plunge his party into litigation on his account and the candidate who seeks to do so for selfish reasons will find the people in no humor to treat his claims with favor.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Itching Skin

Distress by day and night—

That's the complaint of those who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with Eczema or Salt Rheum—and outward applications do not cure. They can't.

The source of the trouble is in the blood—make that pure and this itching, burning, itching skin disease will disappear.

"I was taken with an itching on my chest which proved to be Eczema. I concluded it was salt rheum and bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two days after I began taking it I felt better and it was not long before I was cured. Have never had any skin disease since." Mrs. Ida E. Ward, Cove Point, Md.

STRIFE THREATENED.

We may soon expect an announcement of his candidacy for Governor Beckham, according to rumors which emanate from Frankfort, and confirmation is given the rumor by the strenuous editorials of the Louisville Post, the chief champion of Governor Beckham in the state. The News-Democrat will regret greatly to see the young governor take such a mistaken step.

The recent election has demonstrated that Kentucky Democrats are once more united. Dissension has vanished and there are no family feuds to lose elections and destroy party ties. The bitterness of the past which arrayed Democrat against Democrat has gone, and good-will has taken its place. Kentucky has been completely re-deemed, and a great object lesson taught the party. In union there is strength, is an adage bottomed on eternal truth. But now we are threatened with a repetition of the struggle which cost the state and party so much in the past. A very large number of most excellent Democrats do not believe that Governor Beckham is eligible to be once more governor again. If Governor Beckham should succeed in obtaining the nomination through the efforts of the strong machine he has built up, it will mean turmoil and strife and party confusion for months, perhaps a year, after the election. The matter of his eligibility must ultimately be tested by the supreme court of the United States. And in the meantime Kentucky will suffer.

Viewed from our standpoint, there is at least very grave doubt as to Beckham's eligibility to hold the office. But the cancer of his supporters, and their intolerance of any opposition in this early stage of the campaign, argues very ill for party welfare. The Lexington Democrat and the Louisville Post are both bitter in their warfare against all who oppose their candidate. There is yet nothing to excite animosity, excepting that many Democrats have done a little thinking for themselves. If the beginning is in this spirit, what may we expect of the end of the campaign? The Lexington Democrat refers to some of the best lawyers in Kentucky as "cross-roads attorneys," and continues this strain throughout a long article. These gentlemen had committed the heinous crime of thinking Beckham ineligible for office.

The candidacy of Governor Beckham for re-election means a renewal of the strife and bitterness from which the party has just passed. And speaking for the masses of the party, we hardly think the results will justify such an expense. For it will be expensive. It will cost the Democrats of Kentucky much that the past year has gained for them. The virulence and violence of Governor Beckham's advocates now certainly foreshadows a contest which will most probably again split the party, and fill the entire state with turmoil, strife and confusion.

There is a remedy from this state of affairs, and we believe the sober good sense of the Democratic masses will seize upon it in time to avert the great and manifest danger of the situation. That remedy is to select another man as a candidate. Governor Beckham has a strong office-holding backing him up, but we believe the Democracy of the state will not permit ring rule, nor encourage the up-building of an office-holding autocracy. The duty of the party, we think is very plain. It should absolutely refuse to turn backward from its present state of unity and harmony. It should put every obstacle to continued peace out of its path. But, first of all, a damper ought to be put on all who are beginning to entertain a Beckham's interest at this state of the game.—Paducah News-Democrat.

Evidence is accumulating that Beckham will not be a candidate, but that the machine is casting about for some new candidate who will run for Governor representing the Beckham interests. The growth of Hendrick sentiment in all parts of the State is alarming to the gang and some of Beckham's appointees are already dropping him, and laughing at his ridiculous pretensions of eligibility for re-election. In the meantime, the conviction is growing that the race for Governor is already made up with three entries.

Harlan Buckles, a negro who was sentenced to life imprisonment at Elizabethtown, did not get to go to the pen. A mob took him out of jail and hanged him Sunday night. He murdered R. L. Reid July 10, 1901. This makes three lynchings in the adjoining counties of Meade, Hardin and Larue this year. When justice is administered in Kentucky like it was administered to Czolozos in New York, there will be fewer lynchings by those who are tired of the delay and insufficiency of the law in punishing crime.

The Democratic members of the new Court of Appeals are resenting as an impertinence the intimation that they may be relied upon to render a partisan decision to save Beckham in spite of his ineligibility, if he should force himself upon the party and be re-elected. As some, if not all of them, have heads of their own the schemers may have heard something—or perhaps they "saw a light" when the meteor fell the other night.

Attorney General Clifton J. Pratt is to be the Republican nominee for Governor without opposition, the aspirations of Deboe to the contrary notwithstanding. Mr. Pratt evidently thinks he scents another contest in the air, but he is reckoning without his host. The Democratic party next year will be sure it is right—then go ahead, brush small fry politicians and Republicans out of the way.

An anarchist fired three shots at old King Leopold, of Belgium, as he was on his way to church in Brussels Saturday. The man was captured and gave his name as Robini. Leopold has been King since 1865 and is said to be anxious to abdicate and end his life in peace.

Capt. C. W. Longmire, Major J. Embury Allen, Adj. Gen. D. R. Murray, and Col. Percy Haly, paymasters to settle the claims of the Kentucky soldiers in the Spanish American War, will be here on the 26th inst. to settle with the Hopkinsville veterans.

"Uncle Josh Spruceby."

The following is taken from the Cleveland Daily Recorder, Aug. 15, 1899 commenting on the "Uncle Josh Spruceby" company, which opens on engagement at Holland's Opera House on Tuesday, Nov. 25.

"The Yankee farmer whether drawn with a skillful or unskillful hand never gets lost loose upon the stage without creating as genuine fun as any comic character known to the theatre. He is a real product of American soil and an American audience recognizes this. For many of us there is a soft spot for the homely life of the farm and while the escapades of the typical country greenhorn in the wiles of the confidence men of New York always cause amusement there is a respect for the type of character that moves it somewhat out of the plane of the merely uproarious and makes it a genuine character type. That is why "Uncle Josh Spruceby" a play of the accepted New England type, pleases so well at the Cleveland theatre, and why it drew a crowded house Monday afternoon so early in the theatrical season. The play has no great novelty in it but it does not need one. The "Uncle Josh" will carry the play, his troubles with his daughter of a serious nature and with the bunco steers of a comic sort furnishing the story. The leading character, "Uncle Josh" is well cast in the hands of Frederick B. Carter and the company is acceptable including as it does a special orchestra. There is a realistic saw mill scene where the virtuous escape being seen in twain by the villainous, and a realistic husking bee at Uncle Josh's farm. It is as entertaining a production as one will find at the Cleveland."

Proverbs

"When the butter won't come put a penny in the churn," is an old time dairy proverb. It often seems to work though no one has ever told why.

When mothers are worried because the children do not gain strength and flesh we say give them Scott's Emulsion.

It is like the penny in the milk because it works and because there is something astonishing about it.

Scott's Emulsion is simply a milk of pure cod liver oil with some hypophosphites especially prepared for delicate stomachs.

Children take to it naturally because they like the taste and the remedy takes just as naturally to the children because it is so perfectly adapted to their wants.

For all weak and pale and thin children Scott's Emulsion is the most satisfactory treatment.

We will send you the penny, i. e., a sample free.

Be sure that this picture is the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

BIG COMBINE

Proposed of Kentucky's Mining Interests.

The Consolidation Scheme is Being Engineered by Col. Jack Hendricks, of New York.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 15.—Efforts are being made to consolidate all the mines and mining property in Kentucky into one gigantic concern. Col. Jack Hendricks, former attorney general of this state, but now of New York City, is engineering the deal. The contemplated consolidation applies to all the mines in Western Kentucky as well as the mines in the eastern part of the state.

For some time past rumors of a movement to effect a consolidation of the various mining properties in the state have been circulated, but in every instance they were denied by reliable parties. Now, however, it seems that the rumors were well founded.

NOVEMBER 27.

Thanksgiving Day Proclamation
Issued by Governor.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 12.—Gov. Beckham to-day issued his Thanksgiving day proclamation. It reads: Commonwealth of Kentucky, Executive Department.—The noblest and most beautiful custom of the American people is in their celebration of Thanksgiving day. It is, then, above all other times, that they pause and bow their heads in reverent gratitude to Giver of all Gifts, the Author of all good. It is then that they cease their struggles in the onward progress of individual and national advancement and contemplate the wonderful growth of our country, its bountiful resources, its marvelous achievements and realize that all these blessings have come, not by the hand of man alone, but by the beneficence and providence of an all-wise and merciful God. It is the day when we pay a tribute of reverence and love to Him from whom these bounties have come.

The genius of the American artifice, coupled, it seems, with divine favor, has shown the world the most splendid civilization and the happiest nation in the history of man. The spirit that prompted the early Pilgrims to lift up their prayers to heaven for aid when they landed on our shores and saw before them a vast wilderness inhabited only by savages and wild beasts, is the same spirit that today prompts us upon bended knees to give thanks unto Him, when we see that wilderness transformed, as by a magician's wand, into a land of peace and plenty, and the haunts of savages and beasts changed into the homes of a happy and contented people. We have prospered greatly, and we should be duly thankful.

The president of the United States has appointed Thursday, November 27, 1902, and I therefore designate that day for the Commonwealth of Kentucky as a day of thanksgiving and prayer. Let it be properly observed; let all citizens of the Commonwealth refrain from their usual business pursuits, and take part in the services of the occasion. Let the poor be not forgotten, and let those who have prospered remember those who have not, for the sincerest expression of gratitude is not in fulsome word of the mouth, but in deeds of charity and kindness to those who need help.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the Commonwealth to be affixed. Done at Frankfort this twelfth day of November, nineteen hundred and two, and in the one hundred and eleventh year of the Commonwealth.

C. B. HILL, Secretary of State.

Fears of Assassination.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 11.—Two of the most sensational affidavits ever filed in a Kentucky court have just been filed at Jackson, Breathitt county. That county is the scene of the Hargis-Cockrill feud, and within its borders thirty men have been killed this year. A number were assassinated and credited to one or the other of the factions, while several men are exiled from the county because of their fear of assassination. The affidavits are by attorney J. B. Marcum and Moses Feltnier, his client, accused of the killing of Jesse Fields. The purpose of the affidavits is to secure a continuation of the continuance in the case of Feltnier, and declare that the affidavits are unable to appear on the streets for fear of assassination.

Jim Richardson Prophesies.

But the end is not yet. Mark these words, and see what the next twelve months bring forth. The man-hunt, the assassin hunt, the hunt for the murderer of William Geibel, has not yet really begun. Ere the snow flies before advancing spring, there will be a rattling of dry bones that will shake the Commonwealth from one end to the other, and the world will stand aghast at the horrors of the tale that is told. Men in high places will pray for the mountains to fall upon them, or flee to the mount to save them, and the long arm of stern, unrelenting justice will reach up and drag them down to the doom awaiting them, and that should be meted out to all criminals.—Glasgow Times.

A Magazine Thirty Years Old.

The Christmas (December) number of the Delineator is also the thirtieth anniversary number.
To do justice to this number,
which for beauty and utility touches
the highest mark, it would be necessary to print the entire list of contents. It is sufficient to state that in it the best modern writers and artists are generously represented. The book contains over 230 pages, with 34 full-page illustrations, of which 20 are in two or more colors. The magnitude of this December number, for which 728 tons of paper and six tons of ink have been used, may be understood from the fact that 91 presses running 14 hours a day, have been required to print it; the binding alone of the edition of 915,000 copies representing over 20,000,000 sections which had to be gathered individually by human hands.

The November "American Boy."

cluding, among its stories, the fourth and fifth chapters of the Napoleon biography by the editor, illustrated with a portrait of Josephine, and a stirring picture of the battle of the bridge of Arcola, and a map of Napoleon's campaign in Northern Italy.

OLD TIME ELECTION.

An Account of One Written In 1830 by Geo. D. Prentice.

"I have just witnessed a strange thing—a Kentucky election—and am disposed to give an account of
it. An election in Kentucky lasts three days, and during that period, whiskey and apple-toddy flow through our cities and villages like the Euphrates through ancient Babylon. I must do Lexington the justice to say that matters were conducted here with tolerable propriety; but in Frankfort, a place I had the curiosity to visit on the last day of the election, 'Jacksonism and drunkenness stalked triumphant-an unclean pair of lubberly giants.' A number of runners, each with a whiskey bottle poking its long neck from his pocket, were busily employed bribing voters, and each party kept half a dozen bullies under pay, genuine specimens of Kentucky alligatorism, to dog every poor fellow who should attempt to vote illegally. Half a hundred-weight of mortar would scarcely fill up the chinks of the skulls that were broken on that occasion. I barely escaped myself.
One of the runners came up to me, slapping me on the shoulder with his right hand, and a whiskey bottle in his left hand, he asked me if I was a voter. 'No,' said I.
'Ah, never mind,' quoth the fellow, pulling a corncob out of the beak of the bottle, and shaking it up to the best advantage, 'less take swig at the corncob and toss in a vote for old Hickory's boys—I'll fight for you damme!' Here was a temptation, to be sure; but after looking alternately at the bottle and the bullies, who were standing ready with their sledge-hammer fists to knock down all interlopers, my fears prevailed, and I lost my whiskey.

"Shortly after this I witnessed a fight. A great ruffian-looking scoundrel, with arms like a pair of cables, knotted at the ends, and a round black head that looked like a forty-pound cannon shot, swaggered up to the polls and threw in his bit of paper and was walking off in triumph. 'Stop, friend,' exclaimed one of the Salt River Roarers, stepping up to him, 'are you a voter?' 'Yes, by—,' replied he of the bullet head. That's a lie,' rejoined the Roarer, 'and you must just prepare yourself to go home an old man, for I'll be damned if I don't knock you into middle of your mind in a minute.' 'Ay, ay,' replied the other,
'come on, then; I'll ride you to hell, whipped up with the sea sarpint.' They now had reached an open space, and the Salt River bully, shaking his fist a moment by way of a feint, dropped his chin suddenly upon his bosom and pitched head foremost toward the stomach of his antagonist with the whole force of his gigantic frame. Bullet Head, however, was on his guard, and dodging aside with the quickness of lightning to avoid the shock, gave the assailant a blow that sent him staggering against a whiskey table, where he fell to the ground amid the crash of bottles, mugs and tumblers. Nothing daunted, the bully gathered himself up, and with a single muttered curse, renewed his place in front of his foe. Several blows were now given on both sides with tremendous effect, and in a few moments the Salt River boy repeated the maneuver in which he had first been foiled.
This time he was successful. His head was planted directly in his antagonist's stomach, who fell backward with such force that I had no expectation of his ever rising again.
In the scoundrel's dome, 'Gouge him! Gouge him!' exclaimed a dozen voices, meaning thereby to gouge out his eyes. The topmost combatant seized his hair, and was preparing to follow the advice shouted
in his ear, when the prostrate man, roused to desperation, and exerting strength that seemed superhuman, caught his assailant by the throat with a grasp like that of fate. For a few moments the struggle ceased, and then the face of the throttled man turned black, his tongue fell out of his mouth, and he rolled to the ground as senseless as a dead man. I turned away, a confirmed believer in the doctrine of total depravity.

VOTING CONTEST.

The Most Popular Lady in Christian County to Be Determined By Ballot.

The Winner Will Be Awarded a Set of Furniture worth $110.

A VOTING contest was begun August 29, for four months, to determine by popular vote the most popular lady in Christian County. To the lady receiving the highest number of votes, we will present an elegant set of bedroom furniture, now on exhibition at Pyle & Gazett'. It of quartered oak, of the finest make and latest style, and is worth $110. The contest will close at 12 o'clock noon, Monday, December 29, 1902. The plan will be as follows:

Every subscriber to the Kentuckian who pays back dues or cash in advance will be entitled to cast one vote for each five cents paid. That is to say, a subscriber who pays $2.00 will have 40 votes, one who pays $1.00 will have 20 votes and so on for any amount large or small. In every paper published there will be a coupon and these coupons when cut out and brought or sent to the office will represent each one vote. A subscriber will also have the privilege of gathering up coupons clipped by friends from their papers and voting them one at a time, or by the hundred if preferred. One will also have the privilege of buying papers at the office at five cents each and voting the coupons cut from them.

The coupon ballots will be deposited in a ballot box with two keys. One of these keys will be held by County Judge W. T.
Fowler and the other by Mayor Jovett Henry. The box will be opened not oftener than once a week, all ballots then in it taken out, counted and certified to, sealed up in an envelope and replaced in the ballot box. The envelope will contain a statement of the votes in it, so that its contents will not need to be counted again until the official count at the close of the contest.

The last week of the contest the ballots may be deposited without showing them, so that the close of the contest may be secret and exciting to the end.

Rev. Irl R. Hicks' 1903 Almanac.

To say that this splendid work of science and art is finer and better than ever, is stating it mildly. The demand for it is far beyond all previous years. To say that such results, reaching through thirty years, are not based upon sound sense and usefulness, is an insult to the intelligence of the millions. Prof. Hicks, through this great Almanac, and his famous family and scientific journal, Word and Works, is doing a work for the whole people not approached by any other man or publication. A fair test will prove this to any reasonable person. Added to the most luminous course in astronomy for 1903, forecasts of storms and weather are given, as never before, for every day in the year, all charmingly illustrated with nearly two hundred engravings. The price of single Almanac, including postage and mailing, is thirty cents. Word and Works with the Almanac is $1.00 a year. Write to Word and Works Publishing Co., 2201 Locust Street, St. Louis, Mo., and prove to yourself their great value.
